This page details the process and equipment used for the removal of excessive wax. Seated in an electrically adjustable chair, you are comfortable and in just the right place for us to work safely.

Welcome: On arrival you will be asked to sign a consent form, provide details of your doctor and which surgery you are registered. You will also need to answer some health questions.

Oto-endoscopy: Once you enter the clinic you can relax. You can discuss your needs without feeling rushed. We will use the latest endoscope technology to view the health of the ear.

Education: There are a choice of large monitors so we can view and discuss the now visible problem, its cause, how best to treat it and if the problem may reoccur.

To reduce risk, we do not use head mounted magnification (Loupes) to view the ear. We use an ENT specified microscope. If irrigation is required, we use an advanced 38 degree pre-heated irrigator.

Microsuction: A fully adjustable, powerful LED microscope, HD camera/video and foot pedals, ensure our hands are free to work safely. A small suction tube is placed in the ear canal.

Dry and moisturise: If water is required it may stimulate the ear to produce more wax. We dry the canal and use a special atomiser to replace lost oils and moisture after treatment.

Validation and plan: You will see your images before and after your treatment. If you have a recurrent problem, a complimentary scheduled reminder is offered.
